HOOVER THROUGH WITH FOOD AND POLITICS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Sept. 6.—Herbert Hoover, former director of the international food relief commission in Europe, before leaving for the United States on the liner Aquitania today emphatically denied that he is going into politics when he reaches home. Mr. Hoover declared also that he is not coming back to Europe, despite the efforts of allied statesmen to have him return and continue his splendid efforts at relief.

"No," exclaimed the famous American food expert with emphasis when asked about reports from Paris and Washington that he might enter politics and possibly be a candidate for the presidential nomination.

"I am not thinking anything about politics."

The man who kept the wolf from Europe's door for so long looked tired and worn out, but was plainly elated at the possibility of getting to his home shores soon.

"I am not coming back to Europe again under any circumstances," he said. "Possibly I may never see Europe again. I have stopped off here just long enough to wind up some personal affairs."

"I am through with food. My offices have been dissolved and the work turned over to a commission. When I reach New York I am going to California at the earliest possible moment. I want a rest—I need it. There is no truth in the report that I am coming to Europe."

"I have been asked to retain my official position here, several nations asked me to remain, but I am through."

"I don't know if I will ever come back for private reasons or not. I have not thought about it, and I do not want to think about it now. I want to forget about food and famine and Europe's affairs for a while."

MARKETS DIV'N AT STATE FAIR

Possibilities of the motor truck in cutting marketing costs and facilitating distribution of farm produce will be one of the features of the exhibit arranged by Commissioner Eugene E. Porter of the division of foods and markets for the New York state fair at Syracuse, September 8-13. This demonstration is made possible by the joint effort of the Bureau of Co-operative Associations and the Bureau of Markets and Storage, in co-operation with the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

A demonstration run by eight loaded motor trucks from Buffalo via Rochester to Syracuse and from Cortland via Ithaca, Auburn and Cato to Syracuse will be made Saturday and Sunday, September 6 and 7. The trucks going direct to the state fair grounds where they will be parked for exhibition. Posters, stereomicrograph slides showing rural motor expresses in operation and talks on the advantages of the motor truck as a rural transportation factor will be added features.

The Bureau of Weights and Measures is planning a three-fold exhibit: one part will consist in the exposure of fraudulent scales and weighing devices used by unscrupulous dealers, including measures with false bottoms, junk scales with sliding face, and the arm scale with substituted scoop. There will also be a display of desirable sets of weights and measures for use in the home.

Demonstrations of the grading of apples, onions and potatoes will be given in the old Horticultural Building, the graders to be operated by members of Niagara District Fruit Growers' Association, Inc. The difference in values between clean and soiled packages, and superior and inferior fruits, will be illustrated in a showing of packaged products, both properly and improperly standardized.

A large map of New York state showing co-operative associations with their location and respective lines of effort will visualize the extent of this important phase of modern marketing methods.

All publications of the division of foods and markets, including bulletins and circulars, will be available for distribution at the state fair.

ACTORS STRIKE SETTLED IN N. Y.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 6.—Broadway came back into its own today. The actors' strike is over.
Announcement was made at 3 o'clock this morning that a settlement had been reached satisfactory to both sides. Representatives of the Actors' Equity Association and the Producing Managers' Association had been in almost continuous session since early last evening.
Details of the settlement were not announced. It is stated that the managers had won out on their stand for an open shop.

FIRST SHOT AT FOREIGN "WETS"

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 6.—Rev. David Ostlund, the first representative of the World League Against Alcoholism to leave this country in the interests of world-wide prohibition, sailed Wednesday afternoon for Christiania, Norway.

Dr. Ostlund will reach Norway in time to take part in a nation-wide prohibition campaign which will end with the election October 5 and 6. After this, he will go to Sweden, on the invitation of the leading temperance workers, among them the Hon. Edward Wrangstrom, member of the Swedish legislature and national chief of the Independent Order of Good Templars, an organization with approximately 650,000 members throughout the world, about 350,000 residing in the Scandinavian countries. Dr. Ostlund has also been invited to visit Finland by the Finnish temperance forces.

RESTORE FLAGMAN.

Salisbury Crossing Guardian Was Raised 300 Per Cent. Then Fired.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Sept. 6.—The United States Railroad Administration increased the pay of an Erie Railroad crossing flagman at Salisbury Mills, Orange county, from $255 to $1,430 a year. Then the flagman's services were dispensed with. Under a complaint by H. O. Kochs and others of Salisbury Mills the Public Service Commission, Second District, today directed the railroad to restore the flagman service within 15 days.

Chairman Hill, in the order of the commission directing restoration of the flag service, says:
"The action of the administration is exactly similar to the general policy which it has adopted of retrenching expenses of operation by withdrawing from the public facilities and protection of various sorts at country stations which the administration feels it can no longer furnish by reason of increased costs."

The commission believes the flag service should be restored because of conditions existing which it believes to be dangerous.

ENFORCEMENT PASSES.

Senate Adopts War Time Dry Bill—Permits 5 Per Cent Alcohol.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 6.—Without a record vote the senate passed on Friday the dry bill providing for the legal enforcement of war time prohibition throughout the land during the intervening period between the present and the coming into effect of the constitutional amendment on January 16, 1920.

Over the fact that no demand was made for a roll call, the extent of the opposition to the measure as modified by the senate upon the framework of the moderately drastic measure passed by the house will never be known.

The bill defines intoxicating liquor as that containing more than 5 per cent of alcohol.

The bill passed the senate in practically the same form as it passed the house.

SCHOOLS TO JOIN IN WELCOME

To Returned Soldiers Oct. 1—Juniors Ask Board for Raise in Pay—High School Wants Storage Building—Guarding Against Diphtheria

Dr. Henry Van Hovenberg, health officer for the public schools of this city, attended the adjourned session of the board of education Friday evening, and was given the privilege of the floor. He said he desired to call attention of the members to a question that seemed to him to threaten to be a serious matter. Looking over the list of communicable diseases recorded at the office of the board of health he had found there had been five cases of diphtheria reported during August and one death. He had also found there had been another case that had not been recorded, and that the director of the bacteriological laboratory in this city had told him of one positive case Friday.

He called attention to the danger of diphtheria spreading through the schools. The cases were reported in August. He thought it only fair that he should call the attention of the board to present conditions. Last year the epidemic was severe and kept many pupils from the schools. In August, 1918, there were 5 cases. September 12, October 26, November 30 and in December and January about 50 each month. Dr. Van Hovenberg stated he was sorry to say that for some reason he could not understand there was some friction between the health officer and himself. "I desire to do what I can to prevent an epidemic," he told of the work done last year and related how there were still a number of carriers in the city. He was given to understand that the board would back him up in his efforts to keep diphtheria from the school pupils.

In response to communications from Mayor Canfield, president of the Welcoming Home Committee, and the chamber of commerce committee on parade and entertainment for the returned war heroes of the city on October 1st, it was voted that the high school and higher grade school pupils be invited to take part in the parade, they to report on the morning of that day for roll call. The matter of engaging a brass band was referred to President Flemming with power.

Superintendent Michael called attention to a communication from Frank E. Gilbert, deputy superintendent of education, stating that the state is paying $40 a year instead of $20 a year for each registered non-resident pupil. The superintendent was empowered to charge each parent of non-resident pupil $10, so that the tuition fee be $50 a year.

A request from Secretary Fred Sabloff of the board of health for the use of the high school auditorium, October 9th and 10th, for lectures in connection with the public health campaign to stamp out growth of venereal diseases, was on motion of Trustee Gill granted on the usual conditions.

Trustee Kearney, for the building committee, reported that Principal Lewis of the high school, and Superintendent Service, of the manual training school, had presented a plan with request that the board have constructed at the rear of the high school a storage building, 30x40, the lumber to cost about $850, the work to be done by pupils of the manual training department. It was referred to the committee on finance to examine and report.

President Flemming appointed as the school visiting committee for September Trustees Gill, Herbert, and the president.

Trustee Van Wageningen submitted for the finance committee the payroll for August, amounting to $1,279, and warrants were ordered issued in payment. August general vouchers amounting to $9,652.27, were also reported audited.

The superintendent of schools was empowered to contract with School District No. 8, town of Ulster, for tuition of pupils from that district.

The finance committee was authorized to audit bills for coal and freight in September and clerk and president issue warrants in payment for same.

Trustee Van Wageningen for the finance committee submitted the general balance sheet for the year ending July 31st, which was filed.

Trustee Kearney for the building committee reported that the civil service commission had submitted an eligible list of four bidders who had passed examination for janitorship of No. 8 school, being Francis C. Morris, Levi Elmendorf, Charles Farnham and Charles Locke.

That the committee recommended the appointment of Charles Farnham. The recommendation was adopted on motion of Trustee Gill.

Trustee Kearney stated the committee on buildings had been requested by the school janitors, for a raise in wages, no amount being stated. It was indicated that they would like to receive as much as the janitor at the city hall, which was $30.

The school janitors with the exception of that of school No. 1, were now receiving $70 a month, having signed a contract to work for that amount, excepting schools 2 and 3. The committee made an announcement to the board as to the request for a raise and nothing was done as the board has no money, the annual budget for the year having been adopted by the common council in January.

Day Line to Stop October 19.

The Hudson River Day Line will close the 1919 season on October 19.

STREET FORCE WANT $3.25 DAY

File Petition With Board of Public Works—Petition to Be Acted Upon at Regular Meeting—Other Matters.

The members of the street force of the city now receive $2.75 a day, and recently circulated a petition asking for an increase of 50 cents a day, as related in The Freeman at the time. The petition was filed with the board of public works and read at the special meeting held Friday afternoon, at which time it was decided to lay the matter over until the regular monthly meeting when action would be taken.

Superintendent Van Keuren was directed to erect a grand stand on Broadway at the city hall for the welcome home celebration on October 1.

The Ulster County Automobile Club sent in a communication asking permission to place a sign on the First National Bank directing traffic to the ferries, hotels and the mountains. Permission was granted provided the bank allowed the sign to be erected.

Superintendent J. C. Roberts of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company was present at the meeting in regard to the removal of the two large poles in front of city hall. These poles will interfere with a clear view of the honor tablet when it is placed in position, and were ordered removed by the board of public works at a recent meeting. At the meeting Friday the matter was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren to co-operate with Superintendent Roberts in relocating the poles.

Before adjourning some routine matters were also disposed of.

BLOCK PARTY AN ENTIRE SUCCESS

As the spirits of Henry Sleight, the original resident of Wiltwyck Chapter House, and other of the original settlers of Kingston hovered above the triangle which seemed to symbolize loyalty, courage, Americanism, Friday evening at D. A. R. patriotic block party even the conservatism of their Holland ancestry must have given way to enthusiasm over the wonderfully beautiful scenes enacted by the twentieth century children of Kingston.

Planned with consummate skill, with the plans worked out to a nicety in spite of rain in torments just previous to the event, the program as given Friday evening, in the surpassingly beautiful setting afforded by the background of the Chapter House, the stately and sky-beckoning locust trees and the neighboring colonial houses, was such that the entire pageant was widely noted and produced on a much larger scale than was the beautiful sunset over the water and the glow over the distant but visible Catskills, lining up to meet the rising full moon, sailing through a marvelously beautiful cloud-decked sky. And from the arrival of the first guests, to the departure of the last ones, the human interest grew and grew and grew.

It would be a pleasure to record again the names of all those who made the event such a success, no matter what the nature nor how humble the task of service performed. But so ideally patriotic was the entertainment, as a whole, that The Freeman pretends to record the event in a purely impersonal way, for there could be no discriminating praise.

American flags and the stars and stripes in every form handsomely decorated the houses adjacent to the Chapter House, which had a few simple red, white and blue decorations that stood out vividly against the dazzling whiteness. Stretching across near the base of the triangular elevation directly in front of the building was a huge draped flag of red, white and blue, through whose folds twinkled red, white and blue electric lights. On the trunks of the three sentinel locust trees were fastened the flags of the allied nations, while at the apex of the triangle a raised platform was overhung with a large white electric star, and enclosed with evergreens.

The program opened with the playing of patriotic airs by the Boy Scout Drum Corps in a decidedly spirited and finished manner. Two of the Scouts of the signal corps wiggled a welcome to the entire assemblage.

Then followed a clever Scout drill, two color bearers bringing two beautiful American flags to the front of the platform, where they were softly waved in time to the thrilling and inspiring music of Prof. Muller's sixteen piece orchestra of brasses and percussion instruments.

This drill, which closed with the marching of the Scouts headed by their drum corps, was followed by a beautiful drill of Girl Scouts in white uniforms with sashes and liberty caps of red, white and blue.

These girls brought their opening maneuvers to a standstill in the form of a perfect five-pointed star. As they took this position they flashed sticks of red light, adding to the brilliancy of the picture already dazzling with the long strings of electric lights, the arc light, the star, and the moon over all. The imaginative onlooker, noting the rising, curling smoke from these torches, seemed to see therein a mystic union of the past and present of historic Kingston. Then, led by Harry P. Dodge, the standing audience sang, "America."

In the ruddy glow of the beautiful human star, peace, white robes and lovely and carrying an armful of lilies and symbolic doves, approached from the hospitable doorway of the chapter house to the very front of the platform under the star of peace.

She was followed by the impersonations of Belgium, Italy, Greece, Britain, France and America, all charmingly portrayed. Each character bespoke her part in the world war, with its culminating peace, and at the close of each recital the band played the national air of the country just presented. When America came to the front she was given a rousing and prolonged cheering, and every heart was thrilled as she sang clearly and sweetly, yet heard by all, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean."

The allied nations and peace then formed in a picturesque tableau while the girl scouts went through a perfectly executed drill that called forth continued applause.

Because tomorrow is LaFayette Day, the next number was especially chosen, and Mr. Higginby's singing of the "Marche Lafayette," accompanied by the band truly inspired the great gathering which seemed not to need any further stimulation.

Mr. Higginby's singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," as Mr. Higginby's singing and artistically sung our national anthem accompanied by the band, the entire audience standing until the last notes died away. Then the ten was at fault. The band played a more loudly than the house and Mr. Dodge announced that dancing was in order.

Then came the last stirring final number, enacted with all of the patriotism and platform. Four tall daughters of Kingston came arranged in American flags, came down the aisle of performance, and gracefully and with rare dignity enacted in pantomime, "The Star Spangled Banner," as Mr. Higginby's singing and artistically sung our national anthem accompanied by the band, the entire audience standing until the last notes died away. Then the ten was at fault. The band played a more loudly than the house and Mr. Dodge announced that dancing was in order.

O. S. HATHAWAY BUYS OPERA HOUSE FROM MRS. CORDTS

Now Controls Three of City's Four Theatres

---Opera House To Be Used For Plays, Etc. This Winter and Improved In Spring

---Its History.

One of the most important transactions in real estate in Kingston in some time was completed today when the Kingston Opera House property on Fair and John streets was taken over by O. S. Hathaway, for the past six years lessee of the opera house, from Mrs. John S. Cordts, who owned the property. Mr. Hathaway, who has possession of the property at present, will continue to run the opera house in connection with the Keeney Theater on Wall street and the Auditorium. At present there will be no changes made in the building, which has just been repainted and decorated for the coming season. At the close of the season next spring the property will be altered and brought up to the high standard which Mr. Hathaway maintains in all of the theaters and movie houses which he owns and controls.

In September, 1913, the Kingston Opera House was taken over by O. S. Hathaway and conducted as a high class movie house and during the show season many of the high class musical comedies and shows were brought to town. Since the completion of Keeney's Theater on Wall street, Mr. Hathaway has secured control of that theater, which is one of the finest moving picture houses along the Hudson river. On account of the construction it is impossible to give a show at the Wall street theater and Mr. Hathaway will continue to use the opera house as a play house and has booked a number of the best productions on the road to appear here during the coming season.

The Opera House building which takes up the entire corner at the junction of Fair and John streets, on the first floor contains several stores beside the lobby and entrance to the theater on Fair street.

The Kingston Opera House of today is much different from the building as it was constructed in 1868 and during its existence has been remodelled a number of times. Built in 1868 by a stock company it was dedicated in 1869 as the Music Hall, the dedication address being given by Horace Greeley.

The building was opened with Cornelius Burhans as the first manager, he being followed by William Freer. While Mr. Freer was manager the stage was enlarged so that shows could be given. The stock holders of the old Music Hall company being unable to make the property pay, it was sold at auction and bought by John H. Cordts and William Hutton. Charles V. DuBois and E. J. Nichols became lessees and managers from the new owners and ran the building for some time, Mr. Nichols later retiring.

When Mr. Cordts and Mr. Hutton became owners they immediately enlarged the stage again, extending it out over the driveway in the rear. A new floor was built on an incline and the old benches were taken out and seats installed. The first small gallery was enlarged and the building was decorated, new scenery installed and dressing rooms erected. It was during the time that Mr. DuBois was manager that the name was changed to the Kingston Opera House.

John N. Cordts succeeded his father as owner after the death of his father and on the death of John N. Cordts a few years ago Mrs. Cordts became the owner. Since that time there have been small minor changes made from time to time and this summer it was planned to remodel the stage and make it large enough to accommodate the largest company on the road and install new seats. Owing to the lateness of the season and perhaps the impending sale the building was not remodelled but was simply renovated and redecorated.

For several years the Opera House has been under the management of George H. Gilderleeve and some time ago when the Auditorium was taken over by the Hathaway circuit he became manager of both houses and at present has charge of Mr. Hathaway's three theatres in town.

3 DIPHTHERIA CASES IN CITY
Health Officer Frank A. Johnston when asked this morning in regard to statements made at the board of education meeting Friday evening in regard to the diphtheria situation stated that there were only three cases of the disease in Kingston at the present time, and all three were under school age. He stated that he saw no reason for fearing a diphtheria epidemic at this time, that the health officials were using every precaution to prevent a spread of the disease, and that with the people's co-operation there was no reason to expect an epidemic.

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSED TODAY
All of the city's playgrounds closed today for the season, but the playground apparatus will remain in position on McVey's Field and Forsyth Park until about October 15, and may be used by the children. While the play centers closed last Saturday, the two big play fields remained open in charge of directors until today.

The swings and other apparatus at Kingston Point Park will also remain in position until the park closes later in the month. The playgrounds have had the most successful season in their history, and the directors took advantage of the facilities offered.

A Runaway Collision.
About 5 o'clock Friday afternoon at Broadway and East St. James street two large automobiles came together. One was driven by Harry Van de Vliet, and the other by William Borkman of York. Mr. Borkman claimed Mr. Van de Vliet was at fault and placed him under arrest and turned him over to Officer Walker. Mr. Van de Vliet came each half hour for appearance in police court next Wednesday. He claims that Borkman was more badly damaged than he, and was under his own power. Mr. Borkman's car was repaired in a garage.

MORE ABOUT THE WILLOW ROAD

McKenzie Asserts He Has No Axe To Grind and Efforts To Goad Woodstock Town Government are in Interest of "Square Deal" Only.

Willow, N. Y., Sept. 6, 1919.

Editor of Kingston Freeman.

I saw in your issue of Tuesday, September 2nd, an article containing an account of meeting held in Fireman's Hall, August 29, of which I was chairman.

The account was correct in every particular. I would like to state to the public through your columns so I will not be misunderstood, that personally I have no axe to grind with any one, do not want any office, have no enmity against any man in Woodstock, but do want to see a "square deal" given every one.

Would further state that my stay here is only three or four months although I vote in the town of Woodstock.

The article written by Supervisor Sagendorf is rather misleading as such accounts usually are. In the first place last fall I made it my business to see the town board, and stated the condition of the Willow road through the Dobbin Hollow section. They then stated they could do nothing but would fix it this season. The Supervisor, Sagendorf, the county superintendent, Loring, George Elwin and the town superintendent of highways all knew of the existing conditions. Without consulting anyone they all voted to put the $14,000 on Wittenberg road and if the people of Willow, Lake Hill and Shady had not held an indignation meeting and appointed a committee to meet and confer with the town board they would not have given ten cents to be spent for stone this year. The supervisor and most of the board were at this meeting and would give me no satisfaction but tried to bluff us off to another year. A meeting of our committee in Woodstock they finally after much urging allowed $350 with $200 which had already been appropriated to move mud in the rut, making $700. There was enough in the treasury available to have given $1,000 but County Superintendent Loring said he would not allow them to grant over $500. I do not know what right he had over money raised by the town and not state money. Mr. Sagendorf says "there was some stone on Willow road." About 9 years ago they put a little strip connecting with the Shandaken line. My point is just this. These men elected by the people knowing the condition of the road should have appropriated money at once to put it in repair and not waited to be driven to do it. The residents of Willow Lake Hill, Shady and Beersville have

"Stack Litters!" The War's Over, But Drilling Goes On

Discipline and drill are two important things in the lives of Red Cross motor corps girls. They must march and handle their litters with the same snap and precision as the soldiers passing in review, and they must manoeuvre ambulances with the adroitness of cavalrymen in squadron evolutions. Red Cross motor girls are full-time volunteers.

RED CROSS BUREAU BIG HELP TO NAVY MEN

Shifting Nature of Service Keeps Department Ever on the Alert.

With the American fleet no longer scouring the seas for enemy craft, the work of the American Red Cross at the naval stations, shipyards, naval hospitals and other assemblage points for Uncle Sam's bluejackets has more than doubled.

There are forty-one naval stations, shipyards and hospitals in the territory of the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross which now are among the principal debarking points for the men of the navy. This means that the Atlantic Division, which includes New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, has a large portion of the navy's "water marks" of operation and consequently its activities are on an unusually large scale in order to meet the needs of the thousands of sailors who are constantly coming and going in the Third Naval District.

Service for the navy is a wholly different matter from service for the army. In the latter men "stay put" for a much longer time than in the former. With the navy, where the shifting scene of operation is on the high seas anywhere from Guantanamo to Gibraltar, personal contact between Red Cross workers and enlisted men is far more difficult.

When one works with the navy one must be constantly "on the alert" with one's "finger on the trigger," so to speak, else the opportunity for service will be gone before it is grasped. This condition calls for a high degree of efficiency and training on the part of the Bureau of Naval Affairs workers—an efficiency and training that have not been found wanting, despite handicaps, as results show.

Loans for Sailors.

No sailor on leave who wished to reach home and who was without funds has been deprived of that pleasure, thanks to loans advanced by the Red Cross. Red Cross representatives, covering all forty-one stations in the Third Naval District have also furnished information as to the whereabouts of enlisted men when requests have come in from relatives and friends.

MOTOR WOMEN HAVE SPLENDID RECORD

Help Army Medical Authorities
Evacuate and Debark Wounded and Sick From Transports.

Starting a little over a year ago with 10 members and 3 automobiles, the Motor Corps of the Metropolitan District of the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross, composed exclusively of women, has developed an organization of approximately 1,000 members, which operates 105 ambulances, 250 passenger cars and 27 motor trucks.

The services of these women, all of them full-time volunteers, has not only been of great assistance to military hospitals, but of incalculable help also to the authorities of the Port of Embarkation, as letters and testimonials from commanding officers will attest. The magnitude and kinds of service the corps has provided are shown by the following figures, covering the period from October, 1918, to June, 1919:

Litter cases.....1,618
Ambulatory.....13,153
Nurses.....6,185
Casuals.....11,441
Recreation.....11,985
The hours of service are computed to have been 136,744; the miles covered were 578,043, and the number of "daily cars" 6,568.

Aided Evacuation Work.

The corps has aided in the evacuation and debarking of sick and wounded soldiers, sailors and marines has transported sick and disabled fighting men to theaters and concerts, and has maintained a service for 200 nurses at U. S. Debarkation Hospital No. 3, providing them with transportation four times a day.

Reports from National Headquarters covering 56 per cent. of the Red Cross Motor Corps in this country for the six months following the armistice show a total of 340,000 hours of service with a mileage of 1,690,000. At $2 an hour, this service has meant a contribution of more than $40,000 worth of gasoline. The women of the corps supply their own passenger cars and gasoline. More than 10,000 women are enlisted in this service. The corps is now on a permanent peace basis and the demands upon it are even greater now than during the war period.

Pie Making—A Lost Art— Revived by Red Cross

The American Red Cross has started a country-wide movement to enlist the interest of women in better cooking, and many of its chapters have established classes of instruction.

Apart from conducting a school of home dietetics, the Red Cross of New York City has rented a flat in a district where the people are for the most part poor, and gives lessons regularly there to housewives, young and old.

Political Circles Say That R. E.
Leighton Was Selected as Alder-

Sailed for Europe, and He is Unaware of Honor.

R. E. Leighton, of the Universal Road Machinery Company, is in Europe, and according to political circles, a "pleasant surprise" awaits him upon his return, and the story told makes rich reading.

According to the story being circulated for the past few days the local Democratic leaders were "up a tree" to secure a candidate for alderman-at-large after Lieutenant Netter had declined the honor thrust upon him. They held various consultations, and finally laid the matter on the table for the time being.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 6.—Whether

Jackson is to have the honor of producing the first American mummy or is the victim of a hoax will be revealed within the next few days when a scientific examination is made of an alleged 12 foot 7 inch "corpse" found in the garden of Policeman Orel Nierman. Bones are plainly discernable through what looks to be tightly drawn, mummified skin. The face is round with a small nose and broad protruding teeth. There are traces of black hair on the skull. Policeman Nierman has already refused an offer of $500 for his find.

A Powerful Drama About

Suspect Padded Payrolls.

The presence in Middletown for several days of Capt. Flynn, son of W. J. Flynn, chief of the U. S. Secret service, has caused a stir in railroad circles. Capt. Flynn was formerly head of the railroad detective force for the railroad administration. He is now supposed to be directing what is known as the "home squad." It has leaked out that the government officials suspect that certain railroad payrolls in that territory have been liberally "padded." It is said one man alone has been pulling down about $200 per month on a fictitious payroll. A railroad man says Capt. Flynn has reported to the government that the services of thirteen janitors were paid for in an office. This office has had but one janitor for a part of each day.

Gardner Apple Crop.

The apple growers around Gardiner expect to ship 150 carloads of fruit from that station this fall. This is not too much as Gardiner has shipped as much as 234 carloads of apples in one season, but this year the fruit is exceptionally fine. Abram Deyo, of Ireland Corners, A. L. F. Deyo & Son and Miss Mary Deyo are the largest growers in that vicinity. As are also Solomon Duflois and J. E. Haskbrouck, though the latter ships from Modena, which also does a big business in apples.

This is Lafayette Day.

Many cities throughout the country united today in an unprecedented celebration of the anniversary of the birth of Marquis Lafayette, the French patriot who crossed the seas to help the struggling American colonists win their independence. Because of the new bond forged between France and the United States by the war, the observance took on significance never had before.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 6, 1919.

With some shoe factory workers reported as earning $120 a week, and with all shoe manufacturers realizing heaven knows what profits, what can shoe wearers expect?

Whatever the weather conditions, the farmers never fail to have much to be thankful for. This seems to be recognized by the editor of the Fort Garden Southwest Georgian, who, in response to pessimistic walls over the long "wet spell," cheerfully remarks: "The country is by no means 'ruined'—not yet. We'll all come out on top, or thereabout, by Christmas time."

France has agreed to pay $400,000,000 for our army stores, chattels and fixtures in that country, after first offering to pay a hundred millions less. As much of the property could be taken away only as junk, this is regarded as a very good bargain for us. Doubtless the French know this, but, feeling so deeply indebted to the United States, are not disposed to drive a bargain for themselves.

An enormous demand for cider presses has followed "certain events," according to the Central Missouri Republican, which adds: "Usually the summer apples are not used for cider and most people wait for the mellow days of autumn to grind their apple juice, but certain events have made this sneered at beverage the popular favorite. At public sales cider presses have brought double their cost."

It is reported that a prodigious increase in the manufacture of lemon extract and Jamaica ginger in Baltimore has caused the local collector of internal revenue to ask instructions of his chief and that his chief has given orders to cease all "lenient" policy in dealing with manufacturers of alcoholic preparations which are alleged to be for non-drinking purposes. In other words, there may be such a thing as lemon extract designed to flavor the breath.

HISTORY REPEATED.

In 1876 England and France established a dual protectorate over Egypt. Six years later, in 1882, there broke out in the Egyptian army a mutiny against the authority of the Khedive. France declined longer to be mixed in the affair and England proceeded to act alone. The result of her intervention was the establishment of a "temporary" English protectorate which today amounts to nothing less than absolute dominion. At the time of England's intervention, Egypt was an independent state and while England has repeatedly pledged that her occupation was temporary and Egypt has as repeatedly asked for her independence, England remains all-powerful and all-covering in Egypt today. After thirty-seven years a "temporary" occupation is still in existence and in fact has resolved itself into absolute control.

Today through the power of secret treaties over those who drafted the covenant of the league of nations so similar, "international robbery," as former Governor Joseph W. Folk has characterized the English protectorate in Egypt, has been committed in the case of Shantung. Japan is placed in control of Shantung with a verbal promise that she will return Shantung to China, "as soon as possible," to use President Wilson's own words. These analogous cases bring up the question, what is "as soon as possible" and how long is "temporary"? If at the end of thirty-seven years England continues to hold a "temporary" occupation of Egypt what is prevent Japan at the end of a similar length of time from continuing to control Shantung?

Mr. Folk, counsel for the Egyptian peace delegates, has argued to the foreign relations committee to insert a clause in the peace treaty giving Egypt the right to appeal to the league council for her independence. This he stated was the point that would be done in justice to a country suffering from the same wrong that now confronts China. If such an appeal were granted under the assumption that the league would be adopted, the result is obvious. Japan would vote with England and England would vote with Japan. It must be remembered too, that the league would be controlled by the same powers who made the treaty.

A JUVENILE ARMY OF THRIFT

A juvenile thrift army, a million and a half strong, will be mobilized next week with the reopening of public and parochial schools throughout the second federal reserve district when the summer savings of pupils will be invested in government thrift stamps.

Cardboard vacation savings banks, given to practically every pupil of schools in the district at the commencement of the summer recess, will be returned with the accumulation of savings upon the opening day of school. Cards signed by the pupils on receiving the banks pledged their savings during vacation.

Upon presentation to their teachers when class rooms reopen the banks will be opened and for each 25 cents saved, a thrift stamp will be given the thrifty pupil. Odd amounts will be credited to the savings in the Penny School Savings Books, which are exchangeable for thrift stamps when 25 pennies have been saved. In New York city alone, there are nearly three-quarters of a million—748,486, to be exact—vacation savings banks in the hands of school children. Throughout the second federal reserve district, which includes the state of New York and the twelve northern counties of New Jersey, there is a total of 1,413,278 of these banks outstanding.

How solidly the army of juvenile thrift exponents supported the government may be understood from the fact that last year in Buffalo, where the vacation banks were tried for the first time, the savings of each pupil averaged one dollar. Should the average amount of savings this year be only ten cents, the total fund invested by the youthful savers will amount to $111,327 in this district alone. An average accumulation of 25 cents per pupil will give Uncle Sam the use of $353,319, while a dollar laid away in the vacation bank by each pupil will mean the handsome sum of $1,413,278 placed at the disposal of the government by the thrifty army of potential citizens.

LABOR DAY AT HIGH WOODS

(Contributed.)

Labor Day dawn showed a cloudy sky, yet the people at High Woods worked on just the same getting ready for guests they hoped yet rather doubted would come to them. But come they did. All roads led to High Woods, until a large crowd had gathered in spite of lowering clouds. The parade, on account of the weather, was a little late getting started. First came the Mt. Marion band, then on horseback came Uncle Sam and Miss Liberty, directly behind them was a white float with the inscription banner, "Message of Peace." A young lady stood alone beneath the arch dressed in white, while on her shoulder was seated a white dove, the symbol of peace. Other floats followed among them was a national one, trimmed in our national colors, crowned with our loved Stars and Stripes. The ladies were dressed in the same colors. Willing Workers worked on another float, trimmed in the Reformed Church colors, blue and orange. The farmer float with farm produce reminded all again of the poet's words,

"But fall to each whatever befall,
The farmer he must feed them all."
An Old Time float, showed one grandmother spinning flax into yarn, while another one was reeling it on skeins, ready to be woven on a loom. It was a new sight to the younger ones and brought memories of bygone days to older ones, when every farm had its own flax field. The Jr. O. U. A. M. carried their banner aloft, as they marched along to the music. Autos prettily trimmed were also in line.

A band of gypsies came to see us. One of them said they were looking for a new camp, so followed the other wagons to get a good place. We did not hear of any horse swapping going on, or fortune telling, but one gypsy woman had lace and other articles to sell. Although she wore no crown, we thought it must be the gypsy queen who rode on the high wagon. Probably so she could overlook them all. We heard too late that she was a fortune teller, so we missed the chance of having our future foretold.

At the fancy-booth all kinds of useful and pretty articles were found. It kept the attendants busy to wrap up the goods and take in the money. The refreshment booths were all well patronized, as also the supper-table, where all who came to it found a bountiful supply of goodies, to fill the inner man.

We thank all who came and were so very generous towards us, also to Mrs. Gardam of Saugerties, who sent her friend, Maud Kierstedt, seven dollars for our church which she has kindly remembered before. The receipts were over five hundred dollars. After all expenses are paid there will be still a goodly sum for our church treasury.

Certified By Goodrich More-Mileage Adjustment

Whenever you buy anything, something measures it out, certifying how much of it you get. It may be by yardstick, or a pair of scales.

The tire user has settled on the mile as his measuring unit of service.

Goodrich, accepting his measurement, certifies them both the quality and quantity of Goodrich Tires with the Goodrich More-Mileage Adjustment—6,000 miles for Fabric Tires—8,000 miles for Silver-town Cords.

Goodrich is making what it has pleased thousands of Goodrich dealers and users to tell us "are the best tires the rubber industry has produced."

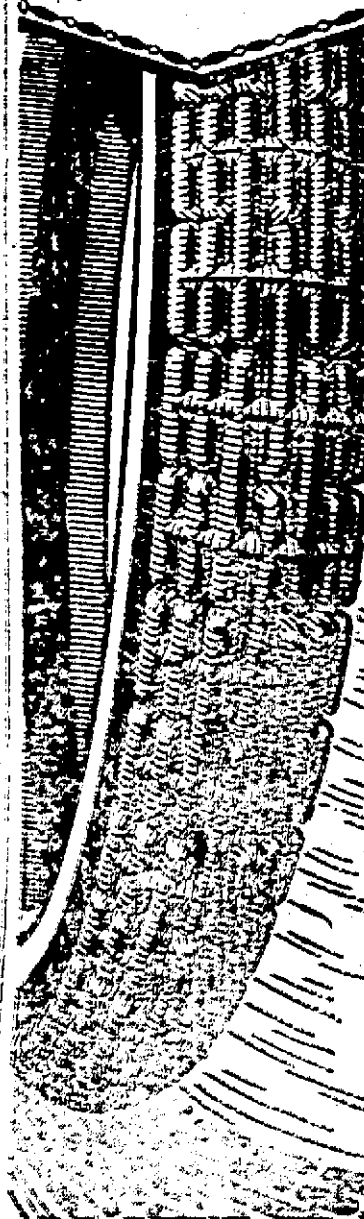

Then Goodrich Certification steps in, and measures out to the tire user in his own unit the least he with proper usage will get from a Goodrich Tire.

It gives tire users the peak standard, at once a gauge to appraise the value of other tires, and a surety bond for the Goodrich Tires he is buying.

And there's only one kind of battery in general use that isn't practically certain to be re-insulated—or junked—within the next year or two.

That one exception is the Willard Battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation.

Come in and we'll tell you why.

DUTCHESS FAIR PRIZES $5,000

Exhibitors Losing No Time in Filling Entries—Eminent Jurists Will Handle Reins in Trotting Match.

Prizes aggregating $5,000 will be awarded at the 75th annual Dutchess county fair, which will open at Springbrook Park, Rhinebeck, September 16th and continue for three days. One of the features of the fair will be an exhibition of the changes wrought in the science of agriculture since the first Dutchess county fair 75 years ago.

Keen interest in the fair has been aroused among the husbandmen and stock breeders of the county. Entries for the various classes are being received each day by the committee in charge. All exhibition live stock shipped by rail will be returned by the roads free of charge, and ample provisions have been made for the care and feeding of the stock while on the grounds.

Tractor demonstrations and operations of milking machines will be daily features, while the exhibition will be further enlivened by trotting and pacing matches beginning at 1:30 p. m. each day. The star event will occur on Wednesday, September 17, the second day of the fair, when there will be a match race between the famous trotters Louise Guy and Bing Bang, driven respectively by Judge Arthur K. Tompkins and Judge A. H. Seeger. This contest, between two of the state's eminent judicial officers, has excited widespread interest in the noble sport which of late years has been waning, and it is expected that the attendance on that day will be the largest of the fair. The event was originally scheduled for the first day, but because of other engagements of the two distinguished trainers it was changed to the second day.

Springbrook Park is situated on the Albany post road just within the village line. The grounds are now in excellent shape for the fair. Among the other features of the fair will be a balloon ascension each day under the direction of Luckey, Plant & Company of Poughkeepsie.

Webster Mott of Rutherford, New Jersey, with his mother, also Mrs. Thorn Mott and two daughters, Mrs. Elmore Thomas and Miss Ella Mott of Clintonville were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Mott.

Miss Ella Quirk of West Esopus celebrated her 54th birthday not long since by giving a party at her home to a few of her friends. All enjoyed the occasion, and when the time for separating came, joined in wishing their hostess many more returns of the day. Miss Quirk, despite her years, still retains her remarkable ability for walking a short time ago coming to Esopus on foot, then taking a train to Poughkeepsie, and upon her return walked home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mott entertained Miss Lillian Burrell of Mount Vernon, Peter Forsman of New York city and Miss Philippine Ishwind of Jamaica, Long Island, for a week.

By invitation from the P. O. S. A. of Kingston, quite a delegation from the Esopus Order attended the service held at Clinton Avenue Methodist Church last Sunday evening. All express themselves highly pleased with the able address delivered by the pastor, Rev. George M. Cranston, on "Faith and Love," a subject which most men are thoroughly interested in.

Mrs. Charles Pangburn of Hobart, Delaware county, was an over Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Galloway.

Miss Laura Horrick of Waterbury, Conn., was a week end visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Freer. She also entertained Mrs. Freer's sister, Mrs. Lloyd George Gunn, and husband of New York city over Sunday and Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gannong and little daughter, Vivian, of Poughkeepsie, also Stewart Glean and George Slater of the same place paid a short visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Galloway on Saturday last. Oscar Nebelt of Afton, Chautauque county, was also a guest a part of last week. Mr. Nebelt is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Gannong and upon his return from his daughter, Sarah, who has been at Mrs. Gannong's for a couple of weeks accompanied him.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mott and daughter, Alice of Newburgh, motored to Esopus on Sunday afternoon to visit Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Mott.

John J. House of this village, has purchased a fine Ford truck of the local agent, Henry M. Mott.

The car which turned turtle on the state road near the residence of Superintendent John N. Winfield a few days ago, is at the garage of F. M. Mott undergoing repairs.

Miss Helen Cole and Miss Ruth Anderson spent Sunday and Labor Day at the home of Miss Cole's grandmother at Larchmont, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Key Vandemark celebrated the 4th birthday of their little son Benjamin on August 14, by giving him a party. The following guests were present: Velma and Orman Hermance, May and Thomas Scanlon and Ruth Garrison of Esopus, also Billy Dietz, and mother, Mrs. Dietz, of Kingston. Games were played and delicious refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake, and lemonade, were served during the afternoon and everybody had just a "lovely time."

A Technical Violation.

Inspector George H. Jones, of the state labor department, on Friday lodged a complaint against Arthur H. Wicks, proprietor of the Thompson steam laundry, on Clinton avenue, that he was employing Michael Gallagher, of 37 Gross street, in his laundry, that the boy was under 16 years of age and his working certificate was not on file at the office as required. This morning Mr. Wicks was in court and explained to Judge Schirick that the lad had his certificate, but had left it at home. The certificate was now on file at the laundry office as required by law. As it was a technical violation, Mr. Wicks was discharged.

SPECIAL MATINEE

"NOTHING BUT LIES" is in reality nothing but genuine fun developed so delicately and deftly that it has given the American stage one of the greatest comedies of recent years. With a very humorous idea it unfolds situation after situation so rapidly and logically that it is next to impossible to conceive anything any funnier or productive of more real rib tickling laughter than results from the two and a half hours taken up in telling this story by a company of competent farceurs.

REP'N TICKET IN MARBLETOWN

The Marbletown Republican town caucus was held at the Grange Hall at Stone Ridge on Thursday afternoon, September 4th.

A very lively contest seemed evident a few days before the convention, but at the last hour the delegates decided upon a dark horse and nominated ex-Supervisor Lemuel B. Bort, the old war horse of the town, for supervisor.

The rest of the ticket was chosen as follows: Raymond Wood, town clerk; James M. Turner, collector; Frank Conner, town superintendent of highways; Foster Winchell, assessor; 4 years; Theodore Allen, assessor; 2 years; Leroy Krom, and Henry Davis, justices full term; Henry Davis, justice short term; Joseph Pratt, Jr., overseer of the poor; George W. Van Wageningen, Charles Schipp, Peter W. Wells, and John Quick, constables.

REALLY NO NEED TO WORRY

But Then, You Know, Some Mothers Get So Worried Over the Merest Trifles.

Uncle Ben was a bachelor, but was full of enthusiasm for his married friends, and when his brother-in-law invited him to come and spend a few days and see his son and help him gladly accepted. It was an education to watch the old gentleman's efforts to amuse the six-month-old child. Just for fun he would snatch its bottle away at feeding time and wonder why the youngster yelled.

Then he would flick it almost into convulsions. Finally he gave it his watch to play with. Then peace reigned. And thus the mother found baby and bachelor.

"Good gracious," she exclaimed excitedly. "Look! Baby's got the watch in his mouth. He'll swallow it. Take it out or he'll choke."

"Don't be alarmed," replied Uncle Ben, smiling placidly. "The boy got hold of the chain. It can't go far."

MASCOTS THAT WERE USEFUL

British Regiment Adopted Two Cows, Which Accompanied Them Throughout the Entire Campaign.

During their march through London a short time ago the Second Scots Guards were accompanied by two cows and many wondered why they were in the procession.

They were originally acquired by the regiment in 1917, when it was in Belgium, and remained with the battalion through the whole war.

They were the means of supplying fresh milk to the officers and sergeants, and a special man was told off to act as cow keeper. It is said that one day their keeper, being behind the battalion and somewhat merry, disposed of the animals to a farmer in exchange for a trifling sum.

When their loss was discovered there was a great uproar, and the keeper was punished by being sent back some thirty miles to repurchase the cows and bring them back to the battalion again.

It was found that the cows became very tame when they were on the march, and one member of the battalion—a blacksmith—determined to show them he succeeded in doing this, for it was a lengthy operation, occupying nearly ten hours.

When he had finished the animals were well shod, with iron plates covering the whole foot.

These cows were perhaps the largest mascots possessed by any British regiment—London Anvils.

Wheat in History.

The Romans introduced wheat into Great Britain. They did not have to carry it far, because before they invaded Britain they had conquered Gaul, the France of modern times, and the Gauls were growing large crops of wheat when the Romans crossed to the western islands. The Britons began to grow wheat and the Saxons continued the work. Still through the Middle Ages the bread of the poorer classes was made of flour from the coarser grains.

Not Fully Equipped.

The major had been back from France just two weeks. His figure had changed so that he had to lay in a complete new regalia of "civics." Then, in all his sartorial glory, he called on her. Father and mother were there to hear all about how he won the war, and he was just in the mood to tell them.

Leading back importantly in the big Morris chair, the center of an admiring little group, he started in. His favorite blushed and her mother gazed. Father smiled broadly. The girl felt ill at ease. Something was wrong.

Then he followed father's gaze. To his utter amazement, the major discovered that his socks had rolled down over his shoe tops. Not having had time for them for nearly two years, he had forgotten to get any garters.

Old Safe Gives Up Treasure.

For years at Lufkin, Tex., a rusty old safe has decorated one of the old streets, a sort of landmark and hitching place for horses. The old safe has given up its treasure. The town kids pried the safe open, finding 12 $5 gold pieces, 40 silver dollars, and a block of stock in one of the town's leading corporations. The boys gave up the stock, but kept the cash. Somebody some day must have known there was money in that safe. The kids got it out. Exchange.

TROOPS INREVOLT

Recorded Cases of Mutiny in British Army.

Have Been Rare in Recent Years, Though War Office Archives Contain Accounts of Uprisings That Were Serious.

With the exception of the recent demobilization troubles, mutinous demonstrations by soldiers of the British army have been, happily, rare in modern times, though they were not by any means infrequent in the bad old days of the lash and the triangle.

One of the most serious of these outbreaks was that which occurred in the Black Watch, over 100 years ago, in connection with which three men were shot in the moat of the tower of London.

The Duke of Wellington had to deal, too, with several of these outbreaks during the Peninsular war, and his methods, for the most part, were equally drastic.

It was his way, however, to deal lightly with mere petulant outbursts. Thus, when the Twelfth Lancers misbehaved in the summer of 1812 by refusing to turn out for church parade, he decreed that the entire regiment should be paraded every evening at 10 o'clock, and stand at attention during the playing of five hymns by the band.

No limit was set to the duration of the order, and the custom, as it eventually became, was continued up to 1912, when it was abolished, after having lasted exactly 100 years.

Far more serious notice was taken by the authorities of a mutiny which broke out among the Nineteenth Hussars at the Curragh camp in November, 1877. The trouble began through discontent with certain officers in connection with extra duty. No fewer than 75 of the malcontents were arrested and tried before a general court-martial, the sentences ranging from five to eight years' penal servitude.

Very tragic was the outcome of a mutiny which broke out among the garrison of Malta in April, 1807. The malcontents seized Fort Biscione, overlooking the grand harbor, where they were besieged by loyal troops. Eventually, rather than surrender, they fired the magazine and all perished.

Probably, however, the most dangerous instance of wholesale disaffection occurred in 1859 among the British troops then serving in India. The disaffected men had enlisted to serve in the Old East India company. Yet, when the company ceased to exist, these men, by a stroke of the pen, were incorporated into the regular British army.

They objected, and regiment after regiment refused to obey orders. In the end the government was compelled to accede to their demands, when some 10,000 men claimed their discharge, and were sent home to England.

Statistics Not Always Right. Statistics, though often interesting, are sometimes most misleading and futile. For example, it is interesting to know from the census bureau the number of prison commitments among the foreign-born population of the United States, but it would be most unsafe to base any generalizations on them, for the number of commitments to prison is no indication of the number of crimes committed, and there are many more criminals at large than behind the bars. Those in prison were not clever enough to escape. They got caught. Those at large were able to commit their crimes and elude detection. The figures for America probably are not very different. There 85 per cent of the criminals are at large. It is fair to assume that this 85 per cent is more intelligent than the 15 per cent that got caught. Therefore the 15 per cent for which the statistics are given is a highly selected group, and any conclusions based upon such statistics are untrustworthy as applied to criminals in general, however valuable they may be as to the comparatively small number that are in jail.

The Government Your Banker.

In response to the desire of a number of soldiers who are being released from the army, Col. Arthur Woods, assistant to the secretary of war, has arranged facilities for discharged men to deposit part of their funds at the camp and have them transferred to banks in their home towns. Local clearing houses in the vicinity of the twenty-three demobilization camps are appointing agents to handle these funds and will transfer them free of charge to whatever bank the soldier may designate. This gives the released soldiers an opportunity to safeguard such of their funds as they choose, and to have them forwarded free wherever they wish.

Back to the Land in Belgium.

The armistice had hardly been signed before a Belgian farmer had returned to his former farm on the battlefield near Valenciennes, within a few miles of Ypres. He has already cleared, leveled, dug and planted with wheat several acres of his holding. A German "pill box" of thick concrete forms a home for his family. It is this class of farmer that the agricultural relief of allies committee is helping to get back to the land by gifts of suitable English live stock. Many hundred head of cattle, pigs and poultry have already been distributed among the small holders in Belgium.

FOR BETTER ROADS

CHANGE IDEAS ON HIGHWAYS

Non-Motoring Public No Longer Regards Good Roads as Speedways for Fortunate Neighbors.

The public's conception of "good roads" has undergone a radical change in the last two years.

Prior to the entry of the United States into the world war, the non-motoring American public, more often than not, thought good roads were advocated chiefly for the benefit of their more fortunate neighbors who owned and drove their own motor cars.

It was E. A. Williams, Jr., president of a large motor truck company. They were inclined to regard good roads as class legislation and were unwilling for the most part to lend either financial or moral support to the construction and upkeep of something from which they derived no direct benefits so far as they could see.

The war merely hastened what leaders of the industry had foreseen for several years; it furnished the setting and the conditions which enabled the truck to establish itself as a factor in the economic life of the country.

The non-motoring public no longer looks upon good roads as "speedways" for the motoring "aristocracy." It has come to realize that motor trucks are essential as transportation factors, and that good roads are necessary to the efficient operation of trucks. Its vision has been broadened; it sees the advantages and benefits which accrue from a combination of these factors—benefits which have a direct bearing upon the economic conditions of the community.

It sees the farm brought, one might say, to the very table of the consumer; sees an ultimate decrease in food prices; and, those who pause to consider the matter further, see the ever expanding range of possibilities of the truck and its ally, good roads.

With the universal recognition and adoption of the motor truck the public's conception of how roads should be built also has undergone a change. Therefore there has been a vast difference between the average man's notion of good roads and that of the experienced engineer. The average man was content to build for the present; the engineer, as a result of past and not altogether satisfactory experience, knows and has known the importance of building for the future as well as the present.

The first thing a railroad does after obtaining a right-of-way, as everyone knows, is to build a roadbed and lay tracks. That roadbed is put in to stay. The track, which corresponds to the surface of the highway, is built of the most substantial and practical material to be had.

The railroad officials, however, do not expect this roadbed and track to last forever without attention. Long ago they learned that the only way to assure safety and durability is to anticipate depreciation and make constant repairs.

That is just what we are coming to in road building. For years it has been customary for county engineers to direct such operations but for the most part their work has been hampered by lack of funds, and inadequate force or by limited legislation and more or less red tape. There are some states in which farmers are still working out their road tax by the day, hauling gravel or stone in a more or less haphazard fashion for the construction of roads; upon their efforts and those of a limited force of hired workers depends the maintenance of the community's highways.

FIND WORK FOR EX-SOLDIERS

Eleven States Plan Vital Highway Improvements This Summer—Fighters Preferred.

Thousands of soldiers coming back to civil life with a preference for outdoor work will find employment in building highways in their home states. Reports from state highway departments of eleven states say that 45,000 men will be employed on their roads this year and that soldiers will be given the preference.

IN THE SCOUTS' OUTDOORS.

I sing a song of trail and tramp. The sport and fun when out at camp. And 'round the embers, when I sit, In freedom as a little child, That one remembers.

I write about the outdoor joys. Of scouting with a troop of boys. Through forest woodland, and the joy of camping 'neath the pine. Out in the woods that I call mine. And of the bluff lands.

I sing of hiking through the snow. Out where the winter winds now blow. With shrieks and laughter. I sing just of the outdoor life. That makes us stronger for the strife. The life we lead.

—Assistant Scoutmaster Peterson, Muskegon, Mich.

SCOUTS ON SCHOOL COUNCIL.

Educators of Binghamton, N. Y., believe the scout movement has an important part in the school system. Superintendent of Schools D. J. Kelly intends to endeavor to make provision, through school troops for all boys not gathered into boy scout troops by the churches or other institutions of Binghamton.

The local scout executive is allowed to have a scout bulletin board in every one of the school buildings. He has also been made an honorary member of the school council, which consists of the supervisors, principals and heads of departments of the schools.

The importance of scouting is emphasized in connection with the physical training and health studies of the schools, and all teachers and school officers are encouraged to use scouts for every legitimate purpose.

THE ROPE IN SCOUTING.

Scout Executive Lawrence Harris of Hammond, Ind., has submitted the fact that a mere piece of rope is of great recruiting value. When he meets a boy who is not a scout he brings the rope into play, goes through a few stunts, and soon another lad becomes a scout.

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

The Silver Fox patrol of Boy Scout Troop No. 2 of Zanesville, O., took up a collection for a needy man who was on his death bed.

Scouts in Springfield, O., have been active in keeping the community in order. They cleaned the snow from the sidewalks and kept the gutters open. A course in civics has been opened at Cleveland university of Omaha, Neb. Father F. K. McManis, president of Cleveland, declared his hearty approval of the boy scout movement.

BOY SCOUTS

EDUCATOR VALUES SCOUTING

Hon. F. P. Claxton, commissioner of education in Washington, in an open letter says in part as follows:

"Persons of vision declare that we are entering upon a renaissance in education. Let us hope that this prediction finds its justification in the awakening of the consciousness of teachers to the infinite possibilities of development of the educative process."

"The church and the school, adequately to serve the youth committed to their care, must extend their functions and absorb under their direction the leisure time of the boy."

"The availability of the boy scout program for such a purpose has been fully tested. It has been approved by leading educators; the movement is essentially religious, but is non-partisan and nonpolitical."

"It offers the boy the opportunity to do the things he wants to do, in a better way than he can do them by himself. Scouting is designed to make real men out of real boys of a real program that works."

"The bureau of education commends it to the favor of all organizations desiring to extend the post-classroom programs of the adolescent boys under their care."

ETHICS OF SCOUTS TRAPPING.

The scout movement today is facing the necessity of giving the proper leadership in the matter of trapping animals that can be classified as harmful to the nation's food and game supply. With this in mind, says Dr. William T. Hornaday, I feel free to state that there is one way, and one way only, in which the steel trap and the boy scout law can be brought into a state of real harmony.

Often, in sections where scouts live, there exist four-footed Americans who, although interesting, are not good citizens because of certain predatory instincts which make of them, when they are too numerous, real pests that must be abated for the common good of all. It is in this work that the scout can employ the steel trap, and at the same time live up to the principles of the scout law.

In the West, the gray wolf with his murderous instincts and marvelous cunning ways works great havoc among the flocks of sheep, the colts and the calves.

In other corners of the country, foxes, mink, raccoons, skunks and weasels collect a toll from the poultry roosts, the crops and the valuable wild bird life of the neighborhood. In such districts these four-footed creatures become the legitimate game of the scout trapper.

THE POOR CITY MAN WAS ALL TIRED OUT.

When a cow has an idea it is worth nothing, for usually we're too lazy to have such things. We're too busy chewing, eating, lying down, feeding, wandering through the pasture.

"I never before heard of any one calling it being busy to lie down," said the horse.

"Then you have heard it for the first time," said the cow, smiling a very broad smile.

"Yes," laughed the horse, neighing, and saying after a moment, "Well, let's begin the stories."

"The cows, all except myself, will tell the stories first of all," said the cow.

So the horse and the cow listened while all the other cows in turn told their stories. They told of special things they had had to eat. Some of them told of milking cans which had upset. Some of them told of the way they had waved their tails around when they were being milked and of how mad it had made their masters.

Some of them told of long, long walks people had taken to find them, for they had wandered so far off. And one cow told a joke which made all the others laugh hard.

"A man from the city," said the cow, "told he would like to go with the farmer's boy to bring in the cows. Well, he walked and he walked, and we had wandered and wandered."

"The farmer's boy thought nothing of it at all, but the city man said he had never taken such a walk and when we were found at last and told to go back to the barn for the milking the poor city man was all tired out."

"But what do you suppose he asked the farmer's boy?"

All the cows shook their heads.

"He asked him when they would have to do the same thing again, and how often they had to do it. And he was so surprised when he heard that we were milked twice a day and had to be brought home twice, too."

They all laughed hard at this, and then the horse told of how he had been taken in a mule and brought to the master that way.

And the cow said, "Just what I was going to tell you. I was brought home in a great big motor wagon, and I think it is pretty much of an honor for a cow to have a motor ride. I don't myself an up-to-date cow." And all the others agreed that the cow had had an unusual adventure.

Surprise.

"Yes, I think we can use you in the morning, and I'll start you at 8 1/2 a day. The salary is not large and you may find it a little difficult getting along at first." "I should say so. I didn't suppose you would people talked to anybody of less than a thousand dollars per week,"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Donner

COWS AND HORSES.

"Moo, moo, moo," said the cow. "Moo, moo, moo," said the other cows.

"Neigh, neigh, neigh," said the horse who was out in the pasture. "I have a story to tell," said the cow.

"We have stories to tell," said the other cows.

"Goodness," said the cow, as she lazily chewed her cud, making her mouth go the whole time. "Goodness," she repeated, "how many creatures have stories to tell. I thought I would be the only one."

"We thought so, too," said the other cows together, and the horse said, "That was exactly what I thought."

"I believe my story is different from all of the other stories," said the cow. "Just what we think about our stories," said the other cows.

"And just what I thought about my story," said the horse, neighing and waving his tail.

"Well, what will we do about it?" asked the cow.

"We'll all have to tell our stories in some way or other," said the cows.

"Well," said the cow, "I'd like to tell mine last, so the best will be kept until the last. That's always a good way to do, keep the best until the last."

"It all depends on what we consider the best," said the other cows.

"What will you do about mine, and when will I tell it?" asked the horse.

"Before I tell mine," said the cow. "Then you think mine will be next to yours, or next to the best?" asked the horse.

"I have an idea it will be," said the cow. "Now, cows haven't many ideas."

THE POOR CITY MAN WAS ALL TIRED OUT.

When a cow has an idea it is worth nothing, for usually we're too lazy to have such things. We're too busy chewing, eating, lying down, feeding, wandering through the pasture.

"I never before heard of any one calling it being busy to lie down," said the horse.

WARREN'S

WILSON WARNS TREATY OPPONENTS

Says Any Small Group of Men Who Plot Future of Country Will Fail as Did Autocracy of Germany and Russia—Kansas City, Senator Reed's Home, Greets President Warmly.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Convention Hall, Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 6.—Following a four mile ride through flag bedecked streets, President Wilson this morning addressed an audience that filled every inch of the building of convention hall here. As at St. Louis, the meeting was of a non-partisan character. It was arranged under the auspices of the Kansas City chamber of commerce.

President Wilson was escorted to his place on the platform at exactly ten o'clock. He was cheered to the echoes as he walked forward to the front of the big platform. The entire audience had been given small American flags and the men and women stood on their feet and waved them as they cheered.

The president sat smiling at the crowd while waiting for the entrance to the hall. It was some minutes before the president, B. J. Parsons, president of the chamber of commerce, could get the attention of the crowd to introduce the president. The hall was jammed and there was a fine crowd all along the route that the procession followed from the station.

As Chairman Parsons started to speak, some one away back in the audience shouted:
"Mr. President, remember this is the home town of Jim Reed!"

This rally brought a good laugh from the crowd.
When the president rose in his seat to speak the audience arose with him, cheering and shouting for 47 seconds.

"It is very inspiring to me to stand in the presence of such an assembly of my fellow citizens," began the president. "It is my duty to report to you what the peace conference did. I came back from Paris bringing one of the greatest documents of human history.

"This document brings out all of the principles for which America stands. America's principles were written into this treaty by common consent. Principles were written into this treaty that never were written into another treaty before. In spirit and essence, this treaty is an American document.

"One of the things America has had most at heart has been to substitute for war discussions of peace. The extent and purpose of the document are expressed in the member states agreeing not to go to war until they have either arbitrated or discussed their matters in controversy.

"That is the central principle of some thirty treaties, all of which were confirmed by the senate of the United States. We have these treaties with Great Britain and many other sovereign nations."

The president said that this principle of discussion is a sovereign American principle. Carried out as it is in the league of nations covenant it will absolutely prevent war, the president said. He then outlined at length the manner in which any nation would be boycotted if it went to war.

"The essence of the treaty will be peaceful," the president continued. "The most terrible thing that can happen to a nation is to be read out of decent society. No nation will attempt this when this treaty becomes effective.

"This war has emancipated the German people as well as the rest of the world. We can not allow atrocities to be restored. If we do all that has been won must be fought for over again. It does not make any difference what the kind of a government that governs you if it is a minority. We must see that no minority anywhere masters a majority.

"I mean in that connection Russia. The men now in control of Russian affairs represent no one but themselves. They have been asked to consult the people but they will not. There are only 34 of these men in control of Russian affairs.

There were more than 21 in control of Wilhelmstrasse in Berlin when the military power controlled the Germany.

"The group in Russia is more cruel than the Czar was and more despotic.

"I also favor preventing minority government in the United States. We must see that little groups of selfish men are unable to plot the future of America. If there is such a group in this country I will fight to obliterate it. I am not saying that any group of our own are consciously doing this. But if there is I want to tell you that I am with you in a final fight to wipe out anything of that sort."

FORD SPOILED LOAD

And Six Occupants Were Bruised.

One Perhaps Badly Hurt.

Friday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock a Ford car containing six people met with an accident near Acra, Greene county, about six miles from Cairo, spilling out the six people and bruising up all of them. The driver of the car was the most seriously injured and when taken to Cairo by Nelson Smith, who conducted a garage at 154 Clinton avenue, was found perhaps to be suffering from a punctured lung. Mr. Smith, who was driving along the road at the time of the accident, picked up the people and gave them assistance, later taking the driver of the car to Cairo for medical treatment.

The car, which was a Ford, was coming down the hill when apparently the steering gear went wrong. The car shot over to the side of the road and tipped over, the occupants and then ran up on the bank, right side up, coming to a stop a short distance from Mr. Smith's car, which he had run out in the ditch to avoid a collision with the crippled Ford.

The names of the occupants were not learned but it is understood they came from South Cairo.

MINERS ARM IN WEST VIRGINIA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 6.—Five hundred well armed striking coal miners started a march today for the Coal River and Guyan districts of Kanawha county to avenge alleged wrongs committed by mine guards there. According to officials of the United Mine workers here, 3,000 other miners armed, are preparing to join the marchers.

The state has no national guard and officials today were considering the advisability of asking for federal troops.

Governor Cornell last night addressed the striking miners but failed to pacify them.

Coal operators here declared that a carload of machine guns with experienced gunners is waiting to help repel the miners.
